Our Most Valuable Asset

The trend toward bigness in business, in industry, in unions and in government should alert management to the danger of overlooking the needs of individuals. That is the view of Eugene N. Beesley, president of Eli Lilly and Co., as expressed at a recent personnel conference of the American Management Association. To quote him directly: "There is danger of having the individual seem smaller, less significant in the minds of management; also there is danger of having the employee himself feel less significant in the magnitude of the corporation, government and world problems."

The biggest organization—whether it be industrial, governmental or labor—is made up of people, and people are its prime resource. The ideal of the individual's worth is what distinguishes our kind of a society from a totalitarian society. If we lose human values, we lose everything.

Mr. Beesley is convinced that personnel executives must find new ways of recognizing the needs of the individual worker. For one thing, he proposes a strengthening of person-to-person and group-to-group communications within organizations. In his own company, personnel executives are required to see that all employees whose jobs have been eliminated or temporarily discontinued because of fluctuations in demand for products are productively employed on other jobs—and without loss of time or reduction of pay.

We need bigness in this big country. But it must be the kind of bigness that never forgets that people—individual people—are our most valuable asset.

Priced Out of Jobs

According to U.S. News & World Report, a union-ward newspaper in Stockholm recently ran this headline: "We need lower wages." The reason is that Swedish firms have been losing out in export markets, largely because of high wages. So, as U.S. News puts it, unions "prefer to see jobs, rather than higher wages but no jobs."

No one expects our unions to ask for lower wages. But it's time they thought in terms of restraint in wage and other demands. American business, no less than foreign business, can be priced out of markets. If and when that happens, the workers are priced out of jobs.

THANKS

I would like to take this means to thank the people of Waveland who voted for me in the recent election. Since this was the first time I was a Candidate for public office, I am very grateful for the number of votes I received, even though I did not win.

Improvements Are Made In Raw Oyster Plants

The raw oyster plants in Harrison, Hancock and Jackson Counties are being remodeled and are taking on a new "look," according to William B. Moorer, advisory sanitarian with the State Board of Health.

Some of the changes include installation of screened shucking sheds, conveyors, chutes and screened shell bins. Better facilities inside packing rooms include the use of three compartment sinks, hot and cold water over each sink, mixing valves at the lavatories and separate sprayers or vats for sanitizing all utensils in daily use.

Mr. Moorer pointed out that these changes are set up by the U. S. Public Health Service in cooperation with all states which have a raw oyster industry. All other oyster producing states are now making these same changes in their oyster plants. The regional office of the Public Health Service for this area is in Atlanta, and each year all certified raw oyster plants in Mississippi have to stand a federal inspection.

"Last season our plants made a good showing," Mr. Moorer said. "With the new changes in equipment and the plants being remodeled, I feel that all plants will score higher on the next federal inspection. Our average score for all plants during the past season was 93.8 per cent."

Mr. Moorer urged the consuming public to buy oysters only from certified packers. A certified packer has a clean and sanitary oyster plant, one that is under inspection by the State Board of Health. Oysters will be packed in pint glass jars, plastic containers, gallon tins, and a few in heavy waxed paper containers with clear plastic lids. All certified containers will show the packer's name, permit number, location and size of container. This information will be embossed or lithographed on the container.

Opening of oysters for sale or shipment in any place other than a certified shucking plant is expressly prohibited, Mr. Moorer said, and any person violating this law will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. These unapproved or "bootleg" oysters are dangerous to any person eating them. Some persons prefer to eat their oysters raw, and they are inviting trouble when they buy oysters from an unapproved source, Mr. Moorer said. Unapproved oysters are still an excellent source for typhoid fever, dysentery, diarrhea and other diseases.

Oysters also should be "dry-packed" according to the State Board of Health law. This law requires the liquor content not to exceed 5 per cent by weight. This law is similar to the one which the U. S. Food and Drug Administration has been using for several years.

Kiln Students Appear on TV

The Pepsi-Cola contest was won by Bertie Faye Cameron and Lonnie Jay Ladner. Other contestants were Patsy Deschamps, McCoy Peterson, Carl Moran, Virginia Adams, Norma Moran, Larry Ladner, Gaynell Ory and Douglas Nacaise.

Winners of the dance contest were Gaynell Ory and Douglas Nacaise. Finalists were Ollie Auction, Donald Moran, Jacqueline Koenen, Larry Lee Ladner, Shirley Hoda and Cecil Nacaise. Winners of both contests received prizes.

Record albums were received by Jerry Malley and Patsy Deschamps. All students received potato chips from Lay Potato Chip Co.

Conway Twitty and the De Jon Sisters were special guests on the program.

After the program the students boarded the Steamer President on the Mississippi River for a sightseeing trip.

WHAT, NO NIGHT-FLYING?

In the "Humor in Uniform" section of a recent issue of the Reader's Digest, there appeared a story contributed by S. Sgt. Gene J. Logan, it read as follows: Here in the Land of the Midnight Sun, about 600 miles north of the Arctic Circle, we have to meet and beat all kinds of hazards of weather and terrain to maintain our monthly flying requirements.

It was the middle of the Summer Season, 24 hours of daylight, and we had just completed a tough schedule of flying for the month. We thought we had done a good job under difficult conditions, but what did our superiors—located far to the south—have to say? A word of praise, perhaps? Hardly. Their reply: "Why is it you haven't met your requirements for night-flying?"

You probably read this story when it appeared in the Reader's Digest and got a laugh out of it. The excuse for possibly inflicting a story on the readers of this column for a second time is, that aside from being humorous, this story illustrates a point.

That point is that centralization of government at Washington is a bad thing for the nation. How can a bureaucrat sitting in Washington know the problems of people hundreds of miles away? And not knowing those problems, how then can he resolve them?

Citizens working and living in a community can best manage their own affairs. They need no help from Washington—no inquiries as to why they "have not met their requirements for night-flying."

Farmers To Vote on Milk Order

Hancock County dairy farmers who supply Grade A milk to fluid milk distributing plants or who supply plants serving the Mississippi Gulf Coast marketing area have the opportunity to vote on the issuance of a proposed federal milk order in a referendum between 8 a.m. and noon Friday.

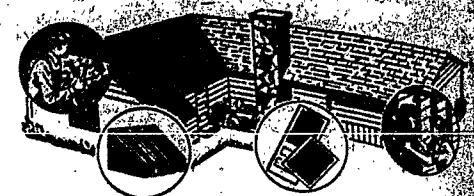

Robert E. Crone, referendum agent, U. S. Department of Agriculture, explained that the marketing areas include George, Greene, Harrison, Pearl River, Jackson and Stone Counties and also military installations in the district.

To be eligible to vote, a producer must have delivered Grade A milk to a pool plant during October, 1958. Ballots will be furnished at the polling places and voters will be required to sign ballots for eligibility determination.

Mr. Crone listed these polling places: Gulfport, County Court house; Lucedale, County Court house; Poplarville, Post Office Building, and Wiggins, County Court house.

Charges Filed After Bullets Break Window

Charges of attempted murder and assault with intent to kill have been filed against El Mitchell, 43-year-old carpenter, allegedly fired 32 pistol and two shotgun bullets into the residence of his estranged wife in Santa Rosa Friday.

Mitchell also engaged in a gun battle with a state trooper, A. W. Alsabrook, 28, on Nov. 9 a.m. Friday after fleeing from Santa Rosa. It was reported by Chancery Clerk Carl Garcia that Mitchell fled the case. Deputy Sheriff Leonard Ladner, Bond for Mitchell has been set at $25,000.

Deputy Garcia said Mrs. Mitchell, 53, and her 82-year-old mother were inside their Santa Rosa home when Mitchell fired the shots. Neither was injured by 12 bullets, 10 of which separated about three feet from the front of the house, Mr. Garcia said.

Mitchell filed a divorce suit against his wife in the Hancock County Chancery Court.

After 18 shots with .22-caliber pistols were exchanged between Mitchell and Alsabrook, Santa Rosa resident, before a run out of ammunition with scoring a hit, Mr. Garcia said. Both men were booked by city police and later released under $100 bond each. Mitchell was returned to Bay St. Louis in custody of Deputy Ladner. He is in Hancock County Jail.

Four big reasons why FORD IS OUTSELLING ALL OTHER '59 CARS

AT THE BRUSSELS WORLD'S FAIR, the '59 Fords were awarded the Gold Medal for handsome new styling elegance by the Comité Français de l'Élégance.

ANYONE CAN FIT IN A FORD: Our cars are built for people—full-size people who want space to stretch out. And all passengers ride in deep-cushion comfort.

YOU'LL BE THANKFUL EVERY TIME you buy the new Ford, for you'll save up to a dollar a tankful with new engines that run superbly on regular gas.

THE FAMOUS FORD LOW PRICES have already made a hit, because only in Fords will you find value and beauty coming together at down-to-earth prices!

The world's best-selling car is the car with Thunderbird elegance

In the greatest styling decision of the year, the American public has already shown a clear preference for the new Fords. Ford sales are way ahead of all competition. Why? One reason is the classic simplicity of their Thunderbird-inspired design—clean, crisp lines that are pure automobile! And Fords are built for people—to sit in, to drive, to ride in—with comfort.

The car in hottest demand across the land has greater roominess and comfort

Thousands of customers have bought the new Ford over all competition for another compelling reason—it's a true six-passenger car. (The only four-passenger car we recommend is the Thunderbird!) All six Ford passengers get plenty of every kind of room—from leg and head to elbow and hip. Rear seat passengers don't feel like they're riding with their feet in a bucket!

The No. 1 car in sales saves money on gas, on oil, on maintenance bills

A new Ford will save you up to 5¢ a gallon on gas. That's because both standard engines—Six or Thunderbird V-8—thrive on regular gas. And Ford saves on oil, too, with a Full-Flow Oil Filter as standard equipment. Drive 4000 miles between oil changes! And you can forget about waxing your car. Ford's Diamond Lustre Finish stays gleaming bright without waxing—ever!

The most popular American car is priced as much as $102.75 lower

Ford costs you less right down the line than the competition. Compare prices tags and you'll see that the manufacturer's suggested retail price of a Ford, equipped with radio, heater, automatic transmission, is as much as $102.75 less than the major competition! And on an air-conditioned car, you can save up to $219.85. So compare and save on a 1959 Ford!
